

Kampánykörút

What is Kampánykörút?

Kampánykörút is a Hungarian political strategy and election simulation game. Its goal is to let players experience historical or alternative political campaigns and shape their outcomes through their own decisions.

Throughout a campaign, you will make important strategic choices: which issues to emphasize, how to respond to unexpected events, where to campaign, and what messages to use to persuade voters. Every decision can influence public opinion and ultimately affect the election result.

Kampánykörút does not aim to tell players what happened or what would certainly have happened. Instead, it provides an opportunity to explore different political strategies and alternative historical scenarios.

How does it work?

At the beginning of the game, you can choose a campaign and a playable character. Depending on the selected campaign, this may be a political party, a candidate, or another historical figure.

During the campaign, you will encounter questions, events, and decision-making situations. Each of your choices can affect voter support, the dynamics of the campaign, and the political landscape across different regions.

At the end of the campaign, the game calculates the election results based on the decisions you made, allowing outcomes that may differ significantly from the historical result.

Historical Accuracy and Fiction

Campaign Trail Hungary draws inspiration from real historical events, election results, opinion polls, and political developments. However, the game intentionally simplifies and models many aspects of reality in order to create an enjoyable and engaging gameplay experience.

The events, dialogue, decision scenarios, and consequences presented in the game should not be regarded as historical fact. Many campaigns explore alternative historical scenarios that exist solely within the game.

Campaign Trail Hungary is not a political analysis, a history textbook, or a tool for predicting the actual outcome of elections or political events.

Political Neutrality

Campaign Trail Hungary does not support or oppose any political party, ideology, or public figure.

The game's purpose is to explore the strategic aspects of political campaigns and examine how different decisions may influence the course of an election campaign. The views and opinions presented within the game serve only to represent the historical figures, political parties, or campaigns portrayed, and do not necessarily reflect the views of the developer.

Acknowledgements

Campaign Trail Hungary was primarily inspired by The Campaign Trail.

Special thanks go to Dan Bryant, the creator of the original game and the American History USA website that hosts it.

We would also like to thank the The Campaign Trail community, whose many campaigns, ideas, and contributions have significantly expanded the original concept over the years.

Campaign Trail Hungary is not an official The Campaign Trail project. It is an independent fan-made game inspired by the original, focusing on Hungarian politics and elections in a similar gameplay format.

About the Project

Campaign Trail Hungary is an independent, unofficial hobby project developed by a single developer in their spare time.

The project's goal is to present Hungarian historical and political events in a way that is entertaining, highly replayable, and allows players to experiment with different historical scenarios.

The game is under active development, and new campaigns, gameplay mechanics, and features may be added in the future.

Data Sources

The campaigns and election simulations in Campaign Trail Hungary are based in part on official election data published by the Hungarian National Election Office.

Some events, descriptions, and simulation elements are also based on publicly available historical records and news sources.

Although Campaign Trail Hungary strives to present its historical background as accurately as possible, its primary purpose is entertainment and the simulation of alternative political scenarios. As a result, the gameplay systems and mechanics should not be considered an exact representation of real-world political processes.
